LAND REGULATIONS

THE sale land of a family of any male over 18 years old may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency or sub-agency for the District. Entry by proxy is not permitted. Any Dominion Land Agency (but not sub-agency), on certain conditions.

Duration—Six months residence upon cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a tract of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A suitable home is required except where residence is performed in the field.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $5.00 per acre.

Duration—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 90 acres extra cultivation.
Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

Settlement—Who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $5.00 per acre. Duration—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 80 acres and erect a house worth $1000.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, stony or dry land. The stock must be maintained for cultivation under certain conditions.

DEATH BEFORE

DEFEAT

In view of the fact that a public mass meeting is being held next Tuesday night in the interest of the provincial patriote band, The Mail prints the following speech by Lord Rosebery, given when addressing a gathering to stimulate recruiting at St. John's.

We have met at a very solemn moment in the history of this country, more so, I think, than any that has occurred in the history of the world, and yet a month ago, we all on the 1st of August, we were all at peace with scarcely a word of war. Within a month our armies have been having their first driving desperate odds; we have two lines of casualties and may soon have a third; the whole face of Europe is in action; the whole face of Europe is convulsed as by an earthquake with the millions of armed men. What a change and in how short a time! How did this change come about?

We shall not know for some years to come the secret history of what brought about this. We know the simple outside facts—the simple surface facts—that Austria declared war against Serbia, that Russia declared she must stand by Serbia, that Germany said she must stand by Austria, and that France said she must stand by Russia. It was really a spark in the midst of a great powder magazine which with infinite toll—misapplied toll as I think the nations say—Europe have been constructing. When you go on building up armaments against each other, there comes a time when either the guns go off of themselves or else the people say, "We can no longer bear this burden of suspense; we have better make an end of it and come blows at once." These are the surface facts of the war. To-night I do not propose to take you further, because I do not know. I do not know if it was some great organizer who deliberately planned this war. Without evidence I should be bold to lay such a burden on the head of any man, because, whoever he be, the crimes of humanity will perpetrate him to the end.

But where do we come? I have told you about Austria, Russia, and the rest; how do we come in? All through the correspondence that led up to the declaration of war, you will see that our government, and of course its mouthpiece and skilled agent Sir Edward Grey, was skilful and energetic and cunning in trying to suggest methods by which peace might be preserved. I do not think that he had a bad character, because the time was too short, and all the time the armies were being mobilized, and when armies are being mobilized war becomes almost inevitable. But, at any rate that was our first part in the general contention of Europe—peace, our second was longer.

We were parties to a treaty to which France and the Kingdom of Prussia were also parties, maintaining the independence and the integrity of Belgium. We determined, rightly or wrongly, wisely or unwisely, but I think rightly and wisely, that so long as any power remained in the arm of Great Britain she was bound not to go back upon her pledged word to Belgium, and she was determined that if Germany was determined to violate her word, Great Britain would not violate hers.

Now suppose it had been possible for us—and I am sure that every government in Britain must always wish for peace—suppose it had been possible for us to stand aside, at any rate for a moment, and to say that as Germany did not respect her word we would not respect ours, suppose we had been able to maintain peace at the price of that degradation, how long should we have been able to maintain it? Even if we had allowed Germany unopposed to violate the treaty of Belgium and had stood on one side, how long should we have endured to see the oppression and slaughter of a small but gallant people in defence of their territory which we had guaranteed to them? Belgium is at this moment a victim of fire and blood and destruction, all wrought by one of the powers that had sworn to guarantee her. How long would the British people have endured such a spectacle at their doors as that?

We should have gone in at last and gone in too late, and we should have had only the bones of our first intention.

I want to say a word as to how this crisis comes home to ourselves. This is the greatest war that the world has ever known—beyond all comparison the greatest war the world has ever seen. The battle of Leipzig, in which Russia, Austria and Prussia fought against the Emperor Napoleon and crushed him, was called the Battle of the Nations. But it was not the battle of the nations; it was the battle of great armies. It was reserved for this war to be the battle of the nations. Every man on the confines of Europe who can bear arms is under arms at this moment, whether in Spain and Portugal and Italy and the Balkan Peninsula, though there is good many in arms there, but among all the great powers of Europe, except Italy, every man at this moment is under arms. We are not in that position,

We have never gone in for conscription, we have never demanded that every man should bear arms for his country, though I remember this, that by the common law of Great Britain every man valid and capable of bearing arms is bound at all times to the country to do so. You may say, "It is all very well, you are all elderly gentlemen. You will not be called out. You will sleep in your bed at night. You will have your meals in your house. You will be safe. It is easy for you to come and exert us, who are younger and able to fight, to go to the front. But do not think that that after all the position of us, the old men who have to dwell among the domestic and listen to the blighting of the dock while you go out to war, is so much preferable to your position. It is an infliction, at any rate, that we are in the definite danger, and in the over and yellow leaf, and do you suppose that there is not one single man of my age of you and go out to the front?"

It is a war of nations, and our nation it is to uphold itself, will not be able to remain neutral. We are fighting on behalf of Belgium. We are fighting on behalf of the integrity of Belgium. There is one thing that is perfectly clear in this matter, it is that those who go to fight will go to fight in a righteous cause.
We are fighting for the independence of Belgium against a power which guaranteed it, and has destroyed it. We are fighting for the freedom of France, a friendly power, who is allied with our armies. But we are also fighting for the safety of the public law of Europe, which if our enemies shall be the conquerors it will be destroyed forever.
When the German Foreign Secretary was asked if he was really going to interfere the neutrality of Belgium he said, "You are not going to war for that going to war for a scrap of paper?" A great power that treats "scrap of paper" like that is not likely to be scrapped itself. The German Chancellor, when he violated this policy in parliament, said, "We knew we were doing wrong in violating the neutrality of Belgium, but we were compelled to do wrong." A nation that begins a great war by declaring that its foundation is wrong, and that it is obliged to do wrong, is likely to fare badly if there be a God in Heaven.

Then we are not merely fighting for Belgium, France, and the sanctity of public law, but we are also fighting for ourselves. We do not fight to gain an acre of territory. We do not fight to gain any advantage for ourselves. We only fight to secure our own liberties and our own independence which would be intolerable.

I know that we have seen in our time in which the loss of a province or two ended the war. That will not be so here. We have seen in which an indemnity of money put an end to the war.
That will not be so. You may lose territory and you may, lose money, but what is certain is this, that if you are beaten you know, if you are beaten you will be beaten, you will be beaten more than province or money. Make no mistake, this is a fight to the finish. If we go under now, we go under forever.

plex. Wood grate is the most modern type.

Buy an Irrigated Farm from The Canadian Pacific Railway.

BECAUSE: Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall, and insures good crops, not occasionally, but EVERY YEAR.

Irrigation makes possible the successful culture of alfalfa, the king of fodders, which insures best returns in dairying and mixed farming.
Irrigation means intensive farming and close settlement, with all the advantages of a densely populated agricultural community.

Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway Block is no longer an experiment, the year 1913 having absolutely demonstrated its success wherever intelligently applied.

You can buy irrigated land from the Canadian Pacific Railway at prices ranging from $5 to $75 per acre, with twenty years to pay, and the privilege of a loan of $5000 for improvements (5% interest); no principal payment at the end of first or second year and no "rental" for first year. Assistance is also given in supplying stock in approved business.

This is the most liberal offer of irrigated farm on record. Get full par-

Mrs. McClure, mother of Mrs. (Dr.) Hager, died on Tuesday night in Bassano. Mrs. McClure had come to spend the winter with her daughter, arriving but ten days previous to her death. She had been ailing for some time and found it necessary to take to her bed immediately upon her arrival in town. On Sunday evening she took worse, and gradually sank till the end came on Tuesday. The funeral is being held on Friday from the home of Dr. Hager, meeting at the house at 2 p. m. Death was due to chronic bronchitis with heart complications.

Considerable trouble is being experienced, particularly in Calgary, over the disbursements from the patriotic fund. There are families that have been thrown into charity from war causes, still, as they have sent no men to the front, are not entitled to any help from the fund. The Premier of the province told Californians in a public address that "only politicians could collect money for any purpose, and spend it for another." However, these people will have to be taken care of and it will be necessary to have countless "funds" from which to draw when dealing with the various cases.

We would gladly distribute free of charge to every Bassano Mail reader a War Map, but an indiscriminate distribution of the Map we are offering is impossible. It is the best War Map issued, beyond question. It is 8 1/2 x 2 1/2 feet, and shows every city, town, village and hamlet, every river and mountain in the whole war area.

We offer The Bassano Mail and that great weekly, The Family Herald and Weekly Star for one year each for one $1.75, and every person taking advantage of this offer will receive from The Family Herald a copy of the War Map Free of Charge. The offer means that you are practically getting one of the papers for a year free of charge. This offer is only good till October 31st.

Fresh Bread, Cakes and Buns always at McKee's.
